SANDY LICK OVERFLOWED.

Lowlands Inundated and Families Compelled to Move to Second Stories of Their Homes.

The continuous rain two or three days last week put the Sandy Lick creek on the rampage and on Saturday the lowlands in this section were inundated and some of the people living near the creek banks were either compelled to move to second story of their homes or move out entirely. Drayman McKee, who lives on extreme west end of Jackson street, had a wagon driven up to front of his house Saturday forenoon, a ladder run from wagon to second story window and he and his family descended ladder into wagon and were hauled to dry land.

The R. & F. C. R'y track was covered some distance with a foot or two of water and trains on the road were abandoned Saturday.

Section men on the R. & F. C. R'y dynamited the ice gorge at the railroad bridge south of town Saturday and got the ice moved without damage to the bridge.

Had it not been for the cold wave that came this way Saturday night the Sandy Lick Creek would have reached a higher mark.

Thompson Cathers Dead.

Robert Thompson Cathers, who was a resident of Reynoldsville and vicinity about fifty years, died suddenly at his home on Fifth street at 9.15 p. m. Friday, January 22, 1904, from heart failure. Mr. Cathers had been suffering with a severe cold for several weeks, but was able to be up and around. He had retired, but had only been in bed a short time when his two daughters, who were in an adjoining room, heard him moan and they went to his bedside and found him unconscious. He died in a few minutes.

The body was taken to Emerickville Monday where funeral services were held in the Lutheran church at 1.30 p. m., conducted by Rev. Perry A. Reno, pastor of the Reynoldsville M. E. church, and interment was made in the Emerickville Lutheran cemetery beside the deceased's wife, who died about five years ago, and four children.

Thompson Cathers was 54 years, 9 months and 24 days old at time of death. About thirty years ago he was married to Laura Emerick, daughter of Peter Emerick, of Emerickville. Unto them nine children were born, five of whom, three daughters and two sons, survive the parents.

Thompson Cathers was a brother of Scott Cathers, Mrs. Daniel W. Strouse and Joseph M. Cathers, of Reynoldsville, whose parents are dead, the mother died 18 years ago and the father 15 years ago.

Big Freight Traffic.

On account of heavy snow drifts the Pennsylvania railroad was compelled to suspend operation three or four days last week on the Chautauqua division, between Dunkirk and Corry. The express trains between Pittsburgh and Buffalo were sent by way of Olean and the coal trains from River division and west end of Low Grade division, that are run to Buffalo via Oil City, were run over the Low Grade division to Driftwood and from there via Emporium to Buffalo, which made freight traffic on the Low Grade lively last week. Big "jack" engines from River division were used on Low Grade to Sabula to get the coal over this division. This was the first time the big engines were run over Low Grade.

Through the special efforts of District Deputy Grand Master Thomas E. Evans, of Reynoldsville, a session of the Grand Lodge of I. O. O. F. of Pa., was held at Punxsutawney on Friday evening to confer the Past Grand Degree on a number of candidates. District Deputy Evans could have had the Grand Lodge session held in Reynoldsville, but selected Punxsutawney because it was more centrally located for the candidates for Past Grand Degree. Over fifteen Odd Fellows from this place attended the Grand Lodge and six of them received the Past Grand Degree. L. J. McEntire, David Smith, John Burgess and A. F. Yost.

HORRIBLE MINE DISASTER.

Almost Two Hundred Miners Entombed by Explosion of Gas.

The most appalling and terrible mine disaster that has occurred in the bituminous coal regions took place at the Harwick mine of the Allegheny Coal Co. at Cheswick, on opposite side of Allegheny river from New Kensington, at 8.20 a. m. Monday by an explosion of gas. Almost two hundred men and boys had gone down into the deep shaft at seven o'clock Monday morning to work and were in the mine at time of explosion. Up to last evening only one of that number had been rescued alive. Alex. L. Flenner and son Harry Flenner, son-in-law and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin DeHart of this place, were among the number who were working in the shaft who have not been taken out of the mine yet, dead or alive. Lloyd Davis, son of J. W. Davis, formerly a resident of Rathmel, and James Baughman, formerly of Rathmel, a relative of Wm. Clawson of this place, were also among the victims of the awful calamity. There is no hopes now that these men are alive. Some of the victims may be buried here.

A Long Wait.

Friday evening about twenty Odd Fellows of this place went to Punxsutawney to attend a session of the Grand Lodge held at that place and they made arrangements with the Jefferson Traction Co. for a special car to leave Punxsutawney at one o'clock to bring them to Reynoldsville. The Odd Fellows got around on time, but the conductor and motorman were just ready to go home and refused to run the car to Reynoldsville because they had received orders not to make the trip. It is hardly necessary to add that the Reynoldsville men were indignant for being treated in that manner. On account of high water the car had been stopped at Elk Run, a half mile above Punxsutawney's business section, and rather than walk back to a hotel at that hour of the night, the passengers remained in the trolley car from 1.00 a. m. to 6.00 a. m., when first car left for Reynoldsville. The power was not turned off and the car was warm and well lighted, but the sleeping accommodations were not extra.

We understand that the reason the company issued orders not to run the special car to this place was because the company thought there were only four or five passengers to come over and the track was not in a safe condition.

Lost a Car Out of Train.

Early Thursday morning of last week, as a fast freight train was going east over the Low Grade division, a freight car jumped the track near the Panther Run branch on this side of Sandy Valley and after bumping along the ties for some distance the car broke its couplings and rolled off the track far enough to let the rear portion of the train run past it without stopping speed of the train. The engineer discovered that his train was broken in two and the front end drifted along almost to Pan-coast before the rear end of train was stopped and the train coupled again. None of the train crew knew anything about losing a car, and it was not until the train reached Sabula was it discovered that a car had been lost.

When the car jumped the track it tore out the frog at the Sandy Valley siding switch, which derailed the rear trucks of the rear car of the DuBois accommodation, which was the first train over the broken frog. Had the passenger train been going the other way a serious wreck would have occurred.
